CNTM Certified Nutritionist Code of Ethics

These principles are intended to aid the (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist individually and collectively in maintaining a high level of ethical conduct. They are not laws but standards by which a (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist may determine the propriety of conduct in relationships with clients, with colleagues, with members of allied professions and with the public.

The honored ideals of AHSU/ IAHS/NINE/ state that the responsibility of the (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist extends not only to the individual but also to society. The CNTM Certified Nutritionist will participate in activities which improve the nutritional well being of the client and community.

(CN)TM Certified Nutritionist will strive continually to improve skill and knowledge and make available to their clients and colleagues the benefits of their professional attainments.

A (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist will practice a method of counseling and planning founded on a legal and practical basis and will not voluntarily associate or work with anyone who violates this principle.

A (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist will choose whom he or she will serve. Having undertaken a client, however, the (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist may not neglect serving the client unless discharged. The (CN)[®] Certified Nutritionist may discontinue service only after giving the notice to the client.

A (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist will seek consultation in doubtful or difficult cases and whenever it appears that the services of members of other professions would tend to provide a more complete or better quality of advice.

A (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist will not reveal the confidences entrusted in the course of consultations, the deficiencies the (CN)TM Certified Nutritionist is required to do so by law.

The members of the CNTM Certified Nutritionist profession will guard the public AND themselves against any nutritional counselors deficient in moral character or professional competence. The CNTM Certified Nutritionist should obey all laws, uphold the dignity and honor of the profession and accept its self-imposed disciplines. They should oppose, without hesitation, illegal or unethical conduct of fellow members.
